

Creating a scone cookbook

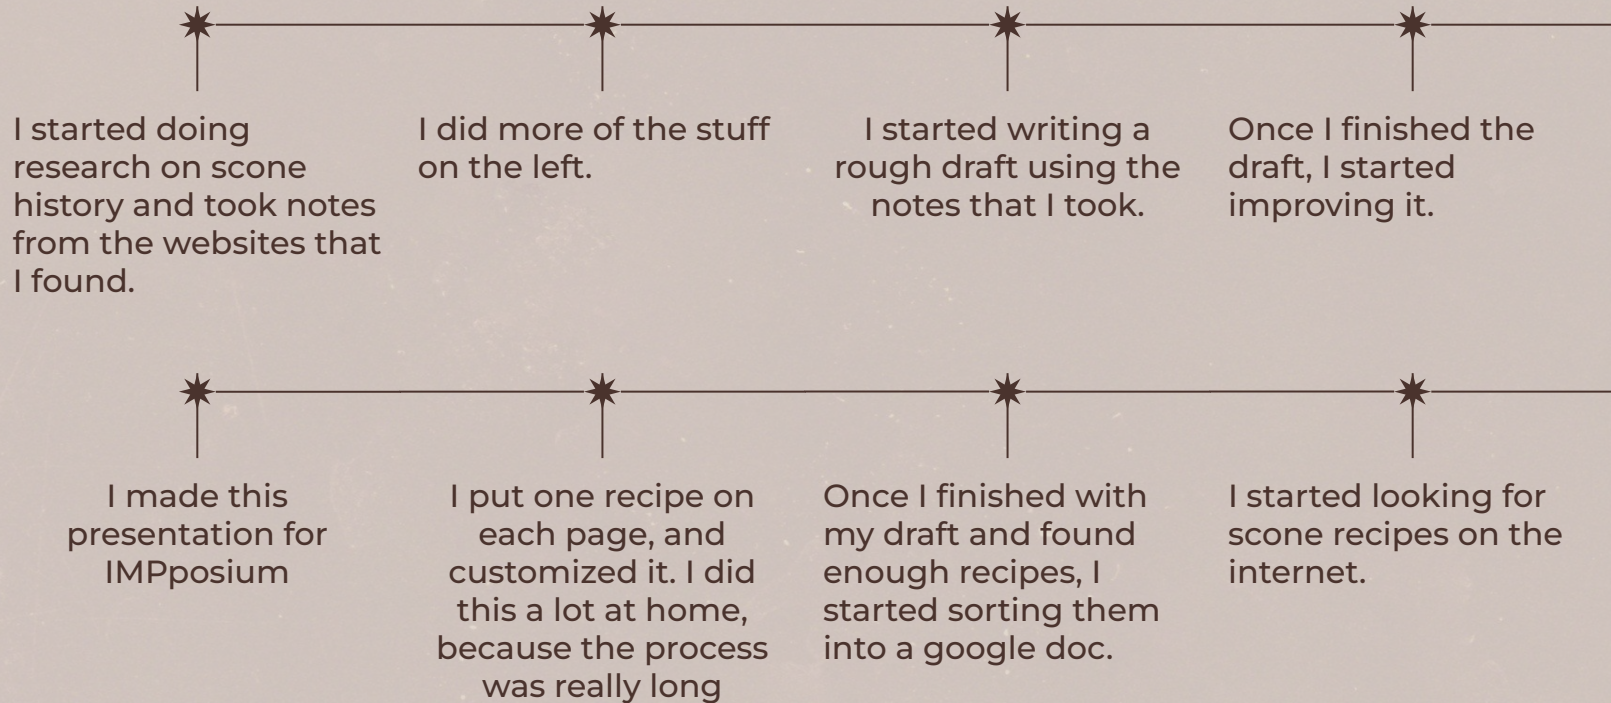

By Anouk

My project

My project was creating a scone cookbook that included scone history. I did a lot of research, and found different recipes for the cookbook. In the end, I put them all together.

Timeline of my project

Why I chose it

- I wanted a project that included doing research and writing, so I could improve on those things.
- I also wanted something that would be fun for me, and I thought that creating a cookbook would be a nice idea.
- I chose a scone cookbook because, first of all, they are delicious, but I also think that they are underrated, and should deserve more attention.

Things that were challenging for me

Something that was challenging for me in this project was finding websites and resources for my research. But in the end, I found enough information for my writing.

Something else that was a little challenging was time. I spent a lot of time on my research and writing, so I didn't have a lot of time to sort the recipes into the cookbook. So I sat at home and did a lot of work, so I was able to finish it.

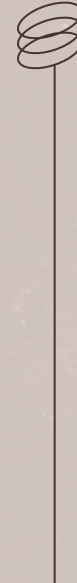

Things I enjoyed in this project

Something that I really enjoyed in this project was doing research. I learned a lot about scones, but the process of taking notes was also really fun.

If I had more time, I might have baked scones here at Acera, but I didn't have enough time. But I think that it would be really fun.

Special thanks

I wanted to give thanks to my mentor, Ms. Ruma, who helped me throughout this project. She gave a lot of helpful feedback on my writing and support.

THANK YOU
